

The Afghan-American Chamber of Commerce (AACC)

cordially invites you to:

Afghanistan Agribusiness Roundtable

With:

The United States Department of Agriculture

Once known as the “Fruit Basket of Central Asia,” Afghanistan’s climate and topography have allowed many varieties of fruits, vegetables, medicinal herbs, and flowers to flourish. As the country has been recovering during the past five years and donors have provided assistance to rehabilitate orchards, irrigation channels, and secondary roads and other donors are currently providing technical assistance, grants, and loans, there are unique opportunities to invest in the sector and obtain this valuable support. Already, enterprising companies and organizations from around the world are investing in products and processing facilities and Afghanistan’s high quality and aromatic agriculture products are being sold again in domestic, regional and international markets. Attend this informative event to obtain information on opportunities in Afghanistan’s agribusiness sector and hear about the work that USDA and other organizations are doing to provide assistance to develop the sector.
